

Mocean

Marion Community Centre (March 29-31)

Community spirit

One thing the Fringe is good at is encouraging community spirit, with productions like Mocean reminding us of the talent around town that lies beneath the radar that is inevitably tuned to the leading companies.

Move Through Life dance company has devised a substantial program of 13 pieces themed on the ocean. The dance is good, basic stuff, appropriately relying on ensemble work with effective visual impact and supported by slick audio-visuals including some wonderful footage of South Australia's coastal waters. An underlying "greenness" is a reminder of the extent to which environmental responsibility is a grassroots movement, which the arts, as much as politicians, ignores at its peril.

Peter Burdon